

St Thomas's Centre celebrated Safer Internet Day on 8th February 2022. Exploring the themes 'All fun and games?' for Primary school pupils and 'respect and relationships online' for Key Stage 3 and Upper School pupils. Safer Internet Day inspires a national conversation about using technology responsibly, respectfully, critically, and creatively. Coordinated in the UK by the UK Safer Internet Centre, the celebration sees thousands of organisations get involved to promote the safe, responsible and positive use of digital technology for children and young people.

"To mark Safer Internet Day 2022, Snapchat will be launching a new AR lens, which features a game about online safety. The game will reveal a variety of safety tips like "report bullying", "be kind" and "limit what you share" in an interactive way which is how Snapchatters best engage with content on Snapchat."

My child has shared a nude – where can I get help?

If your child has shared a nude image and is worried, there are several steps that can be taken to help them.

- 1. Ask them to delete it. Your child may have shared a nude image of themselves with a friend or a partner. Often, the person an image has been sent to will not want to share it any further. Advise your child to have an honest conversation with them and ask them to delete it.
- 2. Report the image. Social networks don't allow naked images of those under 18. If the image has been posted online, a report can be made on most popular sites and the image should be taken down. If the site doesn't have any way to report the image, you can report it to IWF (Internet Watch Foundation). They should be able to assist with getting it removed from the internet.
- 3. Report to CEOP. If your child shared a picture or video because they were threatened, pressured, or forced to, report to CEOP. CEOP can help protect your child. It's never too late to get help.
